

LINGVA LATINA

Introductory Course

Thursday 4, 11, 18 Nov. 2010

Friday 5, 12, 19 Nov. 2010

6pm - 8pm

Good level of passive Italian required

Only few places available

The objective of this course is to introduce participants to the basic grammatical structure of the language that has been a trait d'union in the intellectual sphere throughout Europe for many centuries. Although it is considered as an extinct language, it is however the language in which the humanistic tradition of knowledge is imprinted and archived in most libraries in the old continent. It is also, together with Greek, the language of reference for the etymology of most modern words, especially in the the scientific and medical fields, and not exclusively.

This introductory course is ideal for those who always wished to enrich themselves and engage themselves in the understanding of so many inscriptions which both in Malta and abroad are found on monuments and buildings from the past.

The course fee is 55 euros for 6 lessons x 120min. each
